KEOUGH SCHOOL OF GLOBAL AFFAIRS

How do we identify invisible everyday inequalities that cause suffering, and how do we use nonviolence to change them? How do we recognize a civil war when we see one, and what strategies work best to resolve the conflict? What effect does violence have on individuals, and how can we use this understanding to improve the quality of life in affected communities?

The University of Notre Dame's Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies, part of the Keough School of Global Affairs, is one of the world's leading centers for the study of the causes of violent conflict and strategies for building sustainable peace. Kroc Institute faculty and fellows conduct interdisciplinary research on a wide range of topics related to peace and justice.

The Undergraduate Program in Peace Studies allows Notre Dame students to enrich their education with a supplementary major or minor in peace studies that provides the knowledge and skills needed to understand conflict and promote peace.
