Spring 2023 Registration
Advising Meetings
Fall 2022

All first-year students are required to attend a Spring 2023 Registration Advising Meeting. Students will have an advising hold on their records beginning October 28th. After you attend a Registration Advising Meeting, this hold will be removed. You cannot register for courses for Spring 2023 if you have an advising hold on your record, so it is essential that you attend a Registration Advising Meeting.

What meeting should I go to?

- You are required to attend one meeting.
- You should attend a meeting hosted by the advising team of your intended college or school.
- The Mendoza College of Business meetings are only for students who were pre-approved for Mendoza at the time of admission to Notre Dame. Even if you are planning to apply for an internal transfer to Mendoza, you should attend a meeting for your current intended college.
- You are welcome to attend more than one meeting if you are considering changing your primary major (with the exception of the Mendoza meetings). You do not need to attend two meetings if you are pursuing a second major in a different college. (For instance, a biology major with a second major in English should only attend the Science meeting.)

When are the meetings?

Each college or school will host multiple options for the Spring 2023 Registration Advising Meeting. You need to attend one meeting.
